UNIC Managing Special Events Class Organizes “FEEL-GOOD Scavenger Hunt”

[Nicosia– April 24, 2024]- The University of Nicosia’s Managing Special Events (THOM-240) class has designed a scavenger hunt open to all UNIC students including Erasmus and Global Semesters as well as students (of any university) throughout Cyprus. This unique event is designed to celebrate the cultural heritage of Cyprus while providing participants with an engaging and educational experience. It will explore various museums and landmarks in the city, promoting tourism and appreciation for our rich cultural history.

This event will take place on April 24th in Nicosia, from 12:00 pm to 5:00 pm, followed by a celebration and awards ceremony. Students interested will form groups of up to 5 members and register through Instagram. Groups are to meet in Eleftheria Square where they will be given a combination of games, puzzles, and gaming instructions. Winning teams will have the opportunity to win cash and other wonderful prizes. Ticket prices are 15 euros per person which includes admission, a lunchbox, and the celebration and awards ceremony!

To register for the event, visit our Instagram page, @feelgood.hunt, and follow us for important updates.

We would like to say thank you to our many sponsors!

The Managing Special Events class, taught by Mr. George Panayiotou, has organized “feel-good” events for students for the last several years. The class strives to create fun and educational events for all students through a combination of theoretical and experiential learning approaches in order to meet the course objectives and to provide hands-on experience in the field of events management.
